ARMY CHAPLAINS .- The Army and Navy Journal says: "In a great war there are many interests not suggested by a superficial glauce; and some of these, when examined, prove to be of vital importance. It would be a truism, at this period, to class among these the religious this clause can be repealed without eausing eare of the soldiers in the field and in bospit. als, as to its importance at least. Such are the duties of Chaplains: They are moral and re-ligious teachers; they soothe the sick and ligious teachers; they soothe the sick and beau the wounded, pray with the dying, and bear the promises and consolations of our holy religion to men whose very occupation tends to lead debt of three hundred dollars but a moderate their bearts away from such influences.

"Men fitted for such duties, and performing them with holy zeal, as if 'in their great Taskmaster's eye, cannot he too highly prized or tco lully rewarded. They exhibit the sublimity of courage and self-denial. "Now, let us look at the practical application of these simple principles. A general officer, in conversation with us not loag since, declared that the chaplains in his department were a set of time-serving rascals -- funder of luxurious case, more grasping, not only of less use, hat far more injurious to good order and good morals than say men in his epmms and. Upon our repeating the statement to

THE NEW VICEROY OF INDIA .- The vacancy in the Viceroyalty of ladia, caused by the death of the Farl of Elgin, has been promptly filled by the appointment of Sir John L. M. Lawrence. This, the Philadelphia Press says most emphatically, puts the right man ia the right place. It puts a gallant, able, und popular soldier, well acquaiated with India, instead of such mere civilians, bowever able, as Lords Dalhousie, Conning, and Elgin, who severally went to rule over one hundred millions of people in a country with which they ad ao previous acquaintance. Lawrence's father and brother were distinguished officers in the British army. Born in Yorkshire in March, 1811, he was educated in the north of freland, and finally transferred to the East India College at Hailebury. There he won the law medal, the history prize, and three prizes for proficiency ia iental languages. At the age of eighteea he went out as a writer (a civil position) to India, and very soon was apoirted to an important civil office in D lhi. He rosn year after year, until be became Chief Magistrate of Delhi, at the age of twenty-seven. It permits men of very moderate means burden in comparison with a three years' abence from his workshop. The whole in ent of the clause was to enable a man in moderate circumstances, on whose labor other helpless persons depended for daily bread, to see applicate the ruin of all he held dear by national ance the ruin of all he held dear, by paying to the Government a sum sufficient, as was believed, to procure a substitute. Now to reless encb a clause, without making other changes in the law to correspond, would render it absolutely impossible for a man of mol-trate means to secure the necessary exemption by procuring a substitute, and thus would be The commutation clause, apply to it what-

The Government has a right to tex property, and it has a right to bestow any or all of its honor on those brave men who fight for its existence. It has a right, in case of invasion, perhaps, or of darger to the women and children of a State, to call on all men to figh to defend them. But it will be fer wiser and more effectual in putting down this rebelion in the South not to use force, without the possibility of exemption in any case, to compel

From the Cucinnali Gazetts It is not proposed to prohibit substitutes; nor would it be, except by those who desire to make the war destructive to the industry and subsistence of the people, and to strike from the Government the foundation of its nances. Our case and that of the rebels is cally different. Their productive industry black labor, and that furnishes all the figura in bottom they bave. THE DANISH THOUBLE .- A brief despatch in be latest summary of foreign news says: "It s believed that the Federal execution in Holstein will take place December 10th." This, he Philadelphia Bulletio says, means that the Federal forces of Germany will on that day ...tem t to establish the authority of the Diet in the Duchy, and to put down the officers of the Danish government. There can be no question that, if this is done, a war will have egua. The first shot fired will be like the first shot fired at Sumpter; and, from the last seccuris, the people of Germany and the Fuchies were so excited that we shall not be surprised if there should be an uprising among them not unlike that witnessed in this counry in April, 1861. The King of Denmark has bad ample warn-g of the designs of the Federal authorities. dhe has been making preparations to deend his title to dominion in the Duchies. We eally do not see haw a fierce war is to be avoided. King Christian hases his title upon the treaty of 1852, and the Government of Great Britain formally anneusces that it considers that treaty valid. But most of the German powers take the ground that by the death of the late king, the Duchies revert to the former line, in the person of Prince Frederick of Augustenburg. The people of the SHIRTS Duchies of Schleswig, Holstein, and Lauenlurg are German in race and in feeling, and they are very aoxious to become independent of Denmark. All the promises made hy King Christian have not had the effect of creating for bim any considerable number of particans among them. He will make a sturdy resistance, undoubtedly; but we dea do not see how be can help being overpowered by the Germaos, and losing a very considera-He portion of bis dominions. ATROCIOUS OUTRAGE IN WASHINGTON COUN-TY-Mysterious Abduction of a Young and Beautiful Girl.—A private letter from a lady at Richview, Washington county, in this State, gives the particulars of a most mystorious outrage which was perpetrated at the testidence of Mr. M. A. Linton, residing about four miles from Richview, on the night of the 5th inst. The writer states that a party of thirteen men, disguised by bandkerchiefs tied over the lower part of their faces, and armed with they revolvers, presented themselves at Mr. Linben's house about half-past two o'clock at night and demanded admittance. On being refused they threatened to break down the door. The spokesman of the party was recognized as a man who had taken supper at Mr. Linton's the same evening under pretence of having lest his way to Hayleton, the On being admitted the party demanded Ginevra, a daughter of Mr. Linton's by a former marriage, a beautiful and amnable girl of sixten years of age, who had just returnetone from a boarding school in Ohio. Sh having just run down stairs to see what we the matter, was seized by three ruffi ins an the natter, was served by three ruftions and told that she must go with them, dead or alive. Her father, being totally unitined, was powerless to defend her. The girl was oranged to her room, and, niter being allowed to dress herself, was forcibly carried to a buggy and driven off. As she was borne out at the door she turned towards her father, raised her bands, and exclaimed, "Oh Gad!" A party of eight men were left to guard the house till day light to prevent any alarm being given. During the night they paced around the hot so, knotking at the door, looking in at the winter, rattling the gales, and taunting the wretched inmates by asking how they taken by them, allhough a stranger whom same day is suscected to have been one of reighterhood for some time p at was one of

WEO. D. PRENTICE, Beditors. TUESDAY, DECEMBER 29, 1863.

We in the Journal of yesterday publiched the resolutions adopted by the Conservative Union National Committee at its and the good God forgive us for that. recent meeting in Philadelphin. The resolufrom a gentleman in this city, telling us of tions speak very plainly for themselves, though a word or two of explanation may be | certain slanders uttered against us by Mrs. not improper. note to him, saying, that, the sooner he made In noticing the call for the first meeting of atonement, the better for himself. He called this committee, we said: The purpose of the meeting, and the probable character of its action, will be understood most correctly perhaps from a brief statement of the conservative situation as respects party movement. A plance at this situation will movement. A glance at this situation will suffice. The conservatives proper, viewed with respect to party antecedents, are composed of three separate elements; namely, the Douglas Democrats, the Breckinridge Demorats, and the Constitutional or Conservative nionists. Each of these separate elements is presented by a national committee. The olem is to unite all of these separate elenents into one grand conservative organizaion under the leadership of a single candidate in the next Presidential election. This probthe conservatives as a national party. And the several national committees of the several conservative elements are charged especially with the solution of this problem. Such is briefly the situation.

With the view of considering the problem we have stated, the two Democratic national surance to apply directly to us, sent committees held a joint meeting in the city of New York on the 7th of September last; but, after agreeing that the solution of the problem is desirable and important, they adourned without further action, to meet again on the 8th of January next. The national committee of the conservative Unionists meet at Cincinnati on the 3rd of December next, with the same view. This and noother is the curpose of the meeting. What may be the specific action of the meeting we of course know not; but we think the probable character of its action is manifest enough. Having in view the union of the conservative elements of the country, the meeting, if it acts discreetly, will simply adopt what it deems a proper and feasible basis of union, with such further expressions of sentiment as may be thought fig. and adjourn to meet at the same time and place with the two other conservative nationthe adoption of the same or of esscatially the same basis by each of those committees, and of effecting on the common basis the joint call of n conservative national convention, in which all who subscribe to that basis shall be invited to be represented. It clearly appears to us that any more substantive action would serve to contravene rather than to promote the end in view. And so we do not doubt it will appear to the committee. The action we have suggested is in truth distinctly pointed t enjoined imperatively, by the very design and function of the committee. It is the true and logical action in the case. Nor can we doubt, that, if taken judiciously, it will be crowned with the most glorious suc-

The committee, as will be remembered, met at Cincinnati pursuant to call, and, after consulting the Conservative Unionists assembled there on its invitation, adjourned without further action to the city of Philadelphia; where pursuant to adjournment the committee met last week, and adopted the resolutions in question, which we here republish:

Resolved, That this committee recommends to the people of the United States General George B. McClellan as a candidate for the Presidency, and Governor W. B. Campbell, of Tennessee, as a candidate for the Vice-Presitant States General this wretched book of hers, and taken pay, and then never have published it, she would have treated her patrons a great deal better than she has done. We are corry for it, gre offict of this committee to obtain a perfect unity and concert of action of every conservative element of the people of the United States, and to bring back the government to the great principles of compromise and liberty upon which Washington and his associates

Resolved, That when this meeting adjourns it will adjourn to meet at Independence Hall this evening at 7½ o'clock, that, then and there, in that hall sucred to the cause of liberty and Union, we will announce our action, and call upon the freemen of the country to ise in their strength for its redemption from the ands of those who have assailed its integrity.

It will be observed that the committee has varied somewhat from the line of action we feretold, though the variation is not inconsistent with such action, and, in the judgment of a majority of the committee, is Statea be respectfully requested promptly to instruct these having in charge the matter of judgment we acquiesce although we do not concur. We indeed acquiesce with the most earnest desire that the judgment may prove a correct one. The committee, by way of promoting the nnion of the conservatives of the country, recommends the nomination of General George B. McClellan as a candidate for the Presidency, and of Governor W. B. Campbell as a candidate for the Vice-Presilency. The ticket is certainly a strong and oble one, whatever may be thought of the pricty of thus suggesting a ticket at this y day. As we have said, however, the on, though pregular, is deemed necessary allowat e by the majority of the commitand we field with the most ardent wishes ne bert. I now remains for the committee to eo ammate its action, in the line of its legitimate function, by conferring with the other conservative national committees, in order to bring about such a call for the national convention as may be responded to consistently by the whole conservative body of the land. This final step is provided for hy one of the resolutions under notice, and should be faithfully taken. It can be taken easily with complete success. Let it be taken. The advantage of the irregular action of the committee is at least problematical, though we pay that it may prove both sure and signal, but the advantage of the regular action we now urge is quite too plain for dispute. Let this action on every account be taken. The committee, under the inspiration of a strong | time when it wss notorious that the measures conviction of expediency, has shown itself ready to exercise powers which do not proper- of priseners had signally failed; that hunger ly belong to a national committee; and we and disease were fearfully thinning their numforbear all complaint. It seems to be generally understood that the armies of the Cumberland and of the Potomac are going into winter quarters. Thia will not involve the necessity of military inaction in other quarters. Let the veternn regiments that have seen all the hard service of the war enjoy repose, if it is needed, but all the troops which are now at points within the loyal States ought to be sent forward immediately for operations in the Carolinas, in Texas, and against Mobile. The winter months are most auspicious for the occupation of Mobile, and Gen. Banks onght to have a large supporting force to clear the rebela out of Texas. Wilmington, the chief depot for the blockade runners, through which the rebels obtain all their supplies, abould be captured, and Gen. Gilmsre must have heavy reinforcements to take Charleston. The country demands vigorous measures in the quartera we have indicated, while Grant, with his noble army, keeps the insurgents from reoccupying Tennessce, and Meade, with the army of the Potomac, holds in check the rebels un-

ASTHMA. NEWBURYPOAT, Feb. 25, 1856.

Messrs. Jos. Burnett & Co., Boston: Gentlemen: It is now nearly twelve months since I received the first bottle of your valuable medicine for the cure of Asthma. I was determined to give it a thorough trial, and to convince myself that it was through its effects that I was being so much benefited before I wrote you. I am now satisfied that my relicf from one of the most aggravating, most distressing, and most unrelenting disorders that ever sflicted a human being, is to be attributed wholly to this remedy. For thirteen years I suffered with the Asthma, and during that time there were but few months in which I did not suffer with a paroxysm that entirely prostrated me for two or three days, and sometimes longer. It grew upon me in severity, until in 1853 and 1854 I was obliged for months together to sleep in my chair; and the least active exercise would bring on a psroxysm oftentimes so severe that I could not move an inch for hours. But it is useless for me to describe the tortures of the spasmodic asthma. Those for whom this is intended know full well what it is, and I will merely say, that, from the time I took the first dosc of your "Remedy" to the present hour, I have not had a bad attack, and now my system is so lree from it that the mest active exercise and exposure soldom has any other effect than to slightly restrict the lungs. Your medicine soon dispels that sansation, and I can safely claim a general rclease from the tormentor.

With great respect, your obedient servant, J. H BRAGDON. d29 eod3&w1 Sold by all drnggists.
